Why B9?

B9, more commonly known as FOLIC ACID is found in green leafy vegetables, citrus fruits, beans and whole grains. It is essential in your body's ability to grow new cells and is critical in the prevention of Spina Bifida and preterm births but... a woman must be taking it prior to becoming pregnant in order for it to be effective!

- The easiest way to ensure you have the right amount in your diet is to take a vitamin containing 400mcg of folic acid every day! Folic acid also promotes proper brain function and plays an important role in mental and emotional health
- 1 in 8 babies is born too soon and too small, which can cause lifelong health complications
- 1/2 of all pregnancies in the U.S. are unplanned and Spina Bifida happens in the first 28 days of a pregnancy, before most women know they are pregnant
- Hispanic women are twice as likely to have a Spina Bifida affected pregnancy than any other population
